

I was horrified to hear that "Sinclair" has made a broadcasting decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary just days before an election. This is a clear example of the dangers of having one company own so many stations.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. As we know most if not all big companies only care about what's good for the bottom line and a lot less for democracy. Shame on them, and shame on you for allowing this kind of abuse to take place.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them.

Sincerely
Mike Vilches
